From the Paris Gazette, dated Sept. 23.

Madrid, September 4.

THE King has ſent Order, to Cadiz for ſeven Ships of the Flota, and for three others bought at Genoa, to repair before Barcelona. His Majeſty has demanded a free Gift of the whole Kingdom, for the Expedition againſt Barcelona. A conſiderable Sum is already collected here, and 'tis not doubted, after ſuch remarkable Proofs of the Affection and Fidelity of the People, that they will furniſh the Money neceſſary for terminating this War. Letters from the Army in Catalonia of the 21ſt of laſt Month relate, that the 17th Don Joſeph de Armendaris returned to the Camp, after having put Garriſons into Berga and Solſona, received the Submiſſions of all the neighbouring Countries, and cauſed the Walls of Manreſa to be razed, moſt of the Houſes of which Town had been burnt in the following Manner. He had reſolved, purſuant to the Order he had for it from the Duke de Popoli, to burn 41 Houſes of the Authors of the Revolt; and he firſt cauſed Proclamation to be made, that whoever of the Inhabitants had Bowder or Arms ſhould deliver them up, on Pain of Death. Notwithſtanding which the Fire being lighted, it proved that a great deal of Powder was hid, which increaſed the Flames, ſo that a high Wind happening to riſe, the whole Town would have been reduced to Aſhes, had he not ſet Men to work to extinguiſh the Fire. Neither the Churches nor Monaſteries were burnt, and only that of the Dominicans was a little damaged. 40 Inhabitants of Manreſa were brought Priſoners to the Camp. The Evening of the 17th Don Juan de Zerezeda was detached with 15 Horſe of every Regiment in purſuit of the Rebels, who the Day before had attempted to ſurprize the Town of Martorel on the Llobregat: But they were repulſed with Loſs, by the Garriſon and by the Inhabitants, who gave Proofs of their Fidelity, the Seditious having left the Place. The Marquis de Arpajon was returned from Oſtalric, which Place was evacuated the 17th. In his March the Rebels cut off three Companies of his Rear-guard; but he relieved them ſo ſpeedily, that the Enemy were obliged to betake themſelves to Flight. He brought to the Camp with him the Bailiffs and Jurats of Arenis and of ſome other Places. He had burnt Vilaſar the Church only excepted, becauſe the Inhabitants had taken Arms; as alſo ſeveral Houſes of Premia and of San Martin de Tahia. We have alſo Advice from Catalonia, that the Governour of Lerida, purſuant to an Order from the Duke de Popoli, had put himſelf on the March with the Troops drawn from Balaguer and divers other Places, in order to go and joyn the Detachment appointed to attack the Caſtle of Cardona, whither ſeveral Cannon for Battery were ordered. The Squadron of the 6 Gallies of Spain had paſſed in Sight of Tarragona, with 23 Veſſels laden with Cannon, Mortars, and Ammunition for the Siege of Barcelona, for which Preparations are making. Laſtly, 'tis adviſed, that Nebot going with 200 Horſe to incite the People of the Plain of Vich to revolt, they had refuſed to do it.

Perpignan, Sept. 7. We have ſent from hence 18 Cannon of 24 pound Ball each and Abundance of Tools for breaking up Ground to Roſes, whence they will be tranſported by Sea to Mataro, and thence to the Camp before Barcelona. The Count de Fienne has driven the Miquelets out of Maſſanet where Nebot had got together a Magazine of Proviſions. We have Advice from Oſtalric of the 3d, that Don Feliciano de Bracamonte coming to Mataro with a Detachment of 4 or 5000 Men, had defeated Nebot's Rear-guard, and taken 200 Horſe; that he purſued him as far as the Town of Vich, where he took 200 Horſe more, which Nebot and Berenguer, the military Deputy of the Rebels, had abandoned to ſave themſelves in the Mountains, whither Don Feliciano de Bracamonte had reſolved to purſue them, till he had intirely diſſipated all their Troops.

Hague, Sept. 22. 'It was the general Opinion, that after the Return of the laſt Courier from Madrid, the Ratifications of the Peace with Spain would infallibly have been exchanged forthwith between the Miniſters of Great-Britain and Spain; the rather, becauſe after the grand Conference held here, thoſe Miniſters went all to Utrecht by Concert and expreſly for that End: But we learn now, that the ſaid Exchange is not yet made, becauſe the Court of Madrid has thought fit to limit, if not to alter, ſome Articles in the Inſtrument of Peace which was Signed at Utrecht by their Plenipotentiaries: Wherefore new Inſtructions muſt ſtill be expected firſt from the Courts of Great-Britain and Spain. As for the Treaty of Spain with Portugal, we cannot ſee when 'twill be concluded, ſo oppoſite and far from Agreement are the Inſtructions on the Part of each of thoſe two Courts. 'Tis true the Portugueze do not appear much diſturbed about it, becauſe the Ceſſation of Arms is extended to as long a Term as the War is like to laſt; but beſides that this is not certain, there are ſome who believe that the Prolongation would not have been extended ſo far by the Spaniſh Court, did they not flatter themſelves that during this Interval they ſhall the more eaſily reduce the Catalonians, having no Occaſion to divide their Forces, and that afterwards by terrifying Portugal with the ſame Forces, they may induce that Court to comply and ſign ſuch Conditions as they think proper. The Court of Madrid having at length deſiſted from their Demand that the States-General ſhould be Gurantees of the Sovereignty to be given to the Princeſs Urſini, 'tis thought here that our Treaty with Spain will ſhortly be concluded, and in order to it we wait only for the Return of an Expreſs whom the Plenipotentiaries of Spain have ſent to Madrid, drid, and who is expected back towards the End of this Month. In the mean while a new Pretention is formed, which is, that the States should out of the Emperour's Revenues in the Netherlands make good to the Elector of Bavaria the Loss he suffers in the Country of Luxembourg, by the Erection of the said Soveraignty in it for the Princess Ursini. 'Tis talked, that the Lord Bishop of London will shortly go over to England: It has been observed that since the Privy-Seal went out of his Hands, he has declined Business as much as he well could, because of the Precedency which the Earl of Strafford has from that time claimed. Nor is it thought the Bishop is at all to be blamed, because it cannot be reckoned very agreeable to a Prelate to become the second in the same Commission, after having been the first; and 'tis argued, that were it only for the Honour and Dignity of the Church, his Lordship would have chosen to have been recalled before the Disposition of the Privy-Seal into other Hands was declared. For in a like Case the King of France saved the Marshal d' Huxelles the Displeasure of becoming the second, after having once been the first in the same Commission, by not letting the Abbot de Polignac take on him the Quality of Cardinal till after he had left Utrecht. 'Tis advised from Berlin the 16th of September, that the King had been seized with so great an Oppression at his Stomach, that the Consequences were very much dreaded; but when the Letters came away he was a little relieved, and judged to be out of Danger. Letters from Warsaw of the 9th of September confirm, that the Cham of the Tartars by Order from the Porte had seized and carried to Bender or to Adrianople, King Stanislaus and the Palatine of Kiovia: If this prove true, 'tis thought the Reason might be, either the Sultan's having discovered that the Letters produced by Stanislaus under the Name of the Generals of the Polish Crown were all forged, or else that the King of Sweden is dead, as is advised from several Places.
